WHAT CAPT, GEORGE D. WISE SAYS

The Issue Involved is Similar to That in the Removal of the Deputies Ender Col. James D. Brady--The Appeal to be Decided in this City Probably.

The decision of Judge John J. Jackson, of the United States District Court for the district of West Virginia, concerning the civil service law, is of great interest

The Times printed a synopsis of the Judge's opinion yesterday.

In brief, Judge Jackson decides that a collector of internal revenue has no authority to transfer a man from a higher to a lower position in the service. He upholds the constitutionality of the civil service law and holds that the service 71TS THE BRADY CASE.

decision seems to fit the case of les displaced by Collector James D.

Hon. George D. Wise, counsel for the displaced deputies, was seen by a Times reporter. He had read of Judge Jackson's decision and was greatly pleased with it. Mr. Wise said that the case decided was exactly like that in which he was counsel. The collector of internal revenue in West Virginia followed the example of Colonel Brady and made changes in the personnel of his office. Judge Jackson decided that he had no authority of law for his action, and the effect of the decision is that the man reduced to a lower rank is restored to his former position. George D. "Judge Jackson's decision in West Virginia in favor of United States gaugers and store-keepers who were granted an injunction against the internal revenue collector, prohibiting that officer from making assignment or revoking assign-ment, has created considerable comment

The Civil Service Commission has never made any contention on this point, but, on the other hand, the right of a collector to transfer or lay off gaugers has always been exercised without question. CARNITAL OF NATIONS.

A Large Crowd Present on the Second Evening of the Entertainment.

The second evening of the Carnival of Nations given at the Regimental Armory last evening was a complete success in every way. The big hall is beautifully decorated in the colors of the various na-tions, and walls and ceiling are almost highly appreciated, who kindly agreed to erate two of the booths without any

The visitor upon entering the hall certainly meets with a complete surprise at the beautiful sight that meets his eye and he feels at a loss what to admire first—the artistically fitted up booths, the large variety of tempting articles offered for sale, or the large number of beautiful ladies who have volunteered their services for the noble cause in which the ladies of the various denominations had united their untiring efforts for weeks.

The attractions at each booth are numerous and completely dazling. Those who do not care to buy outright, but prefer to try their luck at chances, have also ample opportunity, for quite a number of arti cles will be voted to the most successful competitors. All the candidates for city offices will of course come in for their share; besides, there will be various articles voted to the most popular physician, minister and the most popular hospital. The miniature of the Virginia Home for Incurables, which has been presented to the ladies in charge of the Catholic booth, will be given to the most popular little girl, and only a few of them have so far entered the race, so that a good chance of winning still remains for those who desire to come in and are willing to take a book and collect votes for them-selves. Lovers of beautiful flowers or of tastefully prepared candy should not fail to call at the Catholic booth, where their Feople who are fond of tobacco in all its variations can purchase all they desire at the tobacco booth, which is draped in red and completely covered with tobacco-leaves. This booth is in the immediate neighborhood of the beautiful Spanish castle, where the Methodist ladies hold forth and charm their visitors with their persuasive powers, inducing them with-out difficulty to open their purses for the benefit of the Home.

The French booth, with its many hand-some articles, is one of the centres of at-traction. The handsome hand-painted chocolate set has already found numerous nunch-bowl, which has been painted by a prominent society lady, who used as a sattern a bowl from Tiffany's, for which the sum of $500 had been paid. A small shield has been left blank on the bowl, which is to bear the name of the lucky party who will carry off the prize.

Among the bewitching fairles who were gliding over the floor of the big hall last evening was a Miss Kratz, representing Spanish girl, who is one of the head indies of the flower booth. Music and dancing formed a part of the

An interesting opisode last evening was the drill of a company of little girls dressed in blue and red under the command of Captain Graves.

The bride, who is the clever daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mann S. Quaries, is one of society's favorites, and the groom is a most successful young business man.

The event was conducted throughout with great dignity, the ceremony being witnessed only by relatives and a few friends.

witnessed only by relatives and a few friends.

The bride was exquisitely gowned in French organdie over taffeta, with Valenciennes lace finish, and taffeta ribbons and tulle veil, fastened by pearl pins, and carried in her hand a white service book. The two maids of honor, sisters of the bride. Misses Lucy Winston and Helen Maury Quarles, wore white organdie with white satin ribbons, and carried bouquets of handsome white chrysanthemums. The best man was Mr. Charles A. Brown, brother of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown left last night on a northern tour, and will be at home to their friends after December 1st at 303 north Third street.

At noon Richard Simpkins and Charles Wiser were strolling through the "city of the dead," when their attention was drawn to a bank of sand piled close to a grave and the broken fragments of a burial casket near by. Further scruting gave evidences that a body had been drazged along the ground. They followed this trail to the west side of the cemetery. to a piece of woods on the other side. The trail led them 200 yards into the woods, when they came suddenly upon a scene winch almost froze the blood in their veins.

There lay, face up, with hair disheveled and burial shroud torn to shreds, so that nothing remained on it but a pair of stockings, the mutilated body of a woman. The ghouls had hacked it, apparently with an ax or hatchet, and cut it open from breast to pelvis. The viscera had been torn out and the heart was missing. The body had been dragged over the ground by two pieces of muslin tied to the feet.

Simpkins and Wiser hastened into town with the news of the sickening discover; and soon a great crowd had collected in the woods to view the corpse. It was identified as that of Mrs. Phoebe Tilton of this city, who had been buried four months ago. Mayor Payne and Chief Marshal Bullick soon had the body re-buried in a new box and efforts were be-gun to gather evidence in the outrage. street, under Schiller's Hall. Do not forget to ask for the little trading checks for you justly entitled to them. We will soon publish a complete list of the merchants who have adopted our system. For further information we refer you to the Leader and Times.

The consumer might as well not call for his change in trading as to not call for the Alumiing his gun, young Robinson and Fish-were neither one idle. Young Robin-n gave Fisher the most dangerous und he received. His bullet struck Fisher about an inch below the left eye going straight in, so deep that the doctors have been unable to locate it. During the melee Fisher emptled his pistol at the Robinsons, and it is reported that the younger Robinson is wounded, but this cannot be verified as the Robinsons have fled. Fisher's fate at this writing is in the balance.

SOLICITING TRADE

An Unknown Snielde, CHICAGO, ILI., Nov. 9.—A young wo-man, pretty and stylishly dressed, whose hands were soft and white, climbed on the trail of the high bridge in Lincoln Park last evening and leaped to her death in the cold waters below.

Rising from the first immersion and seeing a group of persons rush to proffer her aid, she struggled to get further from them and sank to the bottom.

The body was recovered, but every mark upon the clothing that might have furnished a possible clue to her identification become recovered.

its cards and papers, and only a gold ring set with a small enerald was found by the police. There was no initial on Two fingers of the left hand bore the imprints of rings, and the police believe the suicide threw these into the lagoon before she jumped from the bridge. The young woman was about 24 years of age, of middle weight and heisfit. Her com-plexion was dark, with brown eyes and a wealth of dark brown hair. Doesn't Want the K. P.

OMAHA, NEB., Nov. 9.—The Union Pa-inc organization committee has given ut through local headquarters the fact will not bid or in any way appear at the uction of that property.

The same officials declared that the road will in all probability go to the Chicago and Alton, as that company is prepared to pay more for it than any other as it desires the Kansas Pacific o give the Chicago and Alton a through circles that this is the way the property will go, as the Alton has long contemplated a Denver connection.
